A COLLECTION OF EVIDENCE

BRIAN BUTLER

BIOLOGY

An ice cream person can be defined as a part ice cream, part human hybrid. Often characterized by its frozen facial features and some type of cone or shell. Experts are in disagreement over their origins. Some theorize an existence that dates back to the Ice Age. Others have concluded that they originated in outer space, somewhere deep in the milky way.

ARTIST RENDITIONS

After carefully analyzing the various breeds of ice cream people, a formal template was developed to quickly illustrate the most common of the species. The following artist renditions reflect eyewitness accounts from the past three years. Some include details about a particular cone. Each contribute is credited below the image. The name also acts as a link, should you be inclined to learn more about the contribute's background.

TRAVIS LAMPE

Training continuously, Mr Swirly is in top ice cream condition. He knows his business and is physically more than capable of executing it with precision. yet success eludes him. Perhaps it is due to his fear of being licked repeatedly.

The mint twins are conjoined. Despite an early sibling rivalry, they have become close friends. Unfortunately, their creamy texture and semi-sweet chocolate chip bits have caused them to eat off their own appendages.

He thought he liked smoking a pipe. He doesn't.
It's ok, though.

JOE KEINBERGER

A Lesser Frost Imp, or Snow Goblin. Charged with the task of freezing small ponds and streams in winter. Called "Little Frost" in some parts of Europe, is known as the patron saint of lost pets. Often leading them home through blinding snow storms. Has been credited with changing pails of cream into ice cream for sick children who leave them outside their door on New Year's Day. Travels on north wind on his tiny ice cream cone, steering with his candy cane staff.

From a deep sleep, Choch is summoned by an ancient dance. Once Choch rises, one must recite the ancient prayer to open it's third eye. Following this is the release of endless amounts of chocolate syrup within it's belly.

Colonel Cornelius "Berry" Frootenany started his own traveling wild west + quilt making show along with the singing prairie pralines, but had to restrict his appearances to the frozen tundra after a "near melt" experience in Taos, New Mexico. Colonel Frootenany eventually retired but sadly grew bored and licked himself to death in 1974. He left no heirs.

Chocolate Grace: one of 3 ice cream graces, rarely every scene by humans but always appearing in a trio together in locations. Full of inspiration + the ice cream myth. It is said they only appear before and bless those ice cream lovers of the most "purist" taste, and that they themselves are the most decadent forms of the original 3 flavors.

BRIAN BUTLER

Ice Cream People
Research Coordinator

The Ice Cream People Project is meant to elevate the part ice cream, part human hybrid to the same legendary status as Bigfoot or The Lochness Monster. Thus creating a foundation from which the existence of the Ice Cream People may be justified.

In the summer of 2007, Brian discovered his first Ice Cream Person while surveying every miniature golf course in Massachusetts. Shortly thereafter, he witnessed another roadside Ice Cream Hybrid, and became obsessed with their culture, origin, and general existence.

After creating "IceCreamPeople.org", he became inundated with evidence supporting the existence of the Ice Cream Person, and went on to develop a scientific template for witnesses to simply record their encounter.

The collection of artist renditions featured in this document were gathered over a three year period, and should be considered reliable evidence in support of the existence of the Ice Cream Person.
